After two years, Pow Wow is back! The event will occur on September 16, 17 and 18 at Cal State San Bernardino.

This three-day celebration is free and open to the public. Pow Wow provides a sacred space where people from across Indian Country can share their traditions, spirituality and individual style through sounds, motion and art. Native American dishes—such as crowd favorite foods like fry bread—and a diverse array of authentic Native American traditional crafts and fine art will be available from vendors.

The Pow Wow features Southern California traditional bird singers and dancers, as well as North American and Canadian dancers and drum singing groups.

We look forward to hosting our Native American relatives: dancers, drum groups, vendors, spectators, and honored guests to celebrate the very best of Indian Country in 2022.
Kiiká’ Night Out Recap

On Thursday, July 28, the Tribe, our neighbors and local first responders came together at the inaugural Kiiká’ Night Out. Event attendees were treated to games, giveaways, tasty treats and interactive booths hosted by area law enforcement and fire protection agencies. National Night Out inspired the event, a campaign working to strengthen relationships between neighborhoods and public safety organizations. Kiiká’ Night Out attendees joined millions of Americans across the US who participated in similar community-building events this summer. We thank everyone who attended, especially our neighbors, first responders and Belvedere Elementary School.
